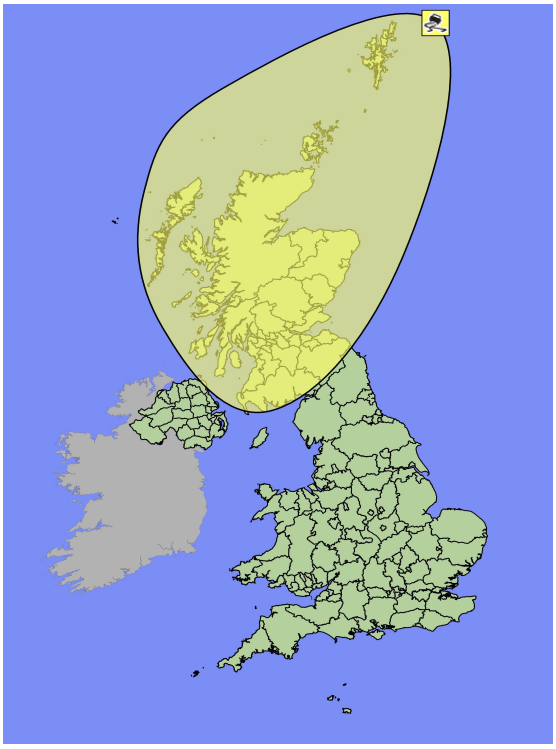
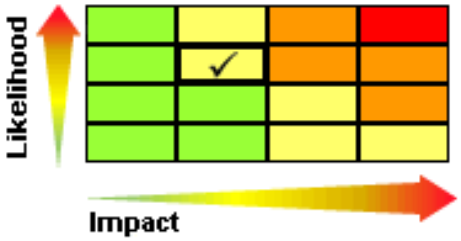
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Another cold start, with a widespread frost, on Saturday morning will lead to a continuation of the risk of icy stretches on untreated roads across Scotland. In addition, wintry showers will affect northern areas, adding to the ice risk. These showers are also likely to bring accumulations of a few centimeters of snow on higher roads in Highland and Grampian.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Alert of Ice

Valid from 00:05 on Sat, 01st Dec 2012 until 11:00 on Sat, 01st Dec 2012

Icy stretches will continue to affect untreated roads across Scotland on Friday night and Saturday morning. In addition, wintry showers will affect northern areas with a few centimeters of snow likely on higher roads in Highland and Grampian.

The public should be aware of the risk of ice.
